

Memories of the US.CPA Examination #1

"Oh my God!" in a loud voice from the next booth at the test

You could take the CPA exam on any day of your choice. At each booth, where the computer and keyboard were placed on the desk, the test was entered with the keyboard while looking at the display.

Near the end of the exam, I suddenly heard a female voice from the next booth exclaiming "Oh my God!". When I left the room, I glanced at the display of the next booth, and I saw something that looked like a floor plan of the building. I wondered what kind of test she was taking.

The goddess of victory, who was supposed to smile at me, must have gone to the next booth.
